

Dear Praying Friends,

Our church has been working our way through the book of Nehemiah, and one of the themes in this book is God's good hand. God is always at work, and we were reminded again over the past two months how much His hand is working through you.

I (Josh) traveled back to South Carolina to visit three of our supporting churches and share an update on what God is doing in Utah. It was encouraging to worship with you and to spend some extended time talking, praying, and eating together. God is visibly working through each of your churches, and it was energizing to see that first-hand.

While in South Carolina, I also had the opportunity to visit one of my mentors, Jim Brown, who is now 91 years old. Jim has spent his life discipling others and is still being used by the Holy Spirit to continue doing this today. He has been battling cancer and was recently displaced from his daughter and son-in-law's home after a water pipe froze and flooded the entire house. These challenges have not slowed him down and his joy was contagious. We have both learned so much from him over the years, and I'm grateful for the time I was able to spend with him in person.

We are excited that Emily, who has interned with our church for the last few summers, is planning to move to Utah next month! She is from one of our supporting churches in Michigan and wants to serve here in a more long-term capacity. Please pray that God would provide for her needs during this transition and open doors for new ministry opportunities as she gets settled into our community.

Thanks for staying connected to our ministry, and we hope you have a safe and meaningful Memorial Day weekend!

Love in Christ,
Josh & Rebekah Miller
